Research of "10 Rules for Writing a Good Novel" -Masterclass

6/12/2021 1 Comment

To begin the writing process, I have been researching tips and tricks on how to write a good novel. I thought I would "share the wealth" to those who are also interested in becoming an author. Below is my summary of Masterclass's "10 Rules for Writing a Good Novel".

1. Read other Material.
 - Reading other books is the best way to develop your writing style
 - These authors are like invisible mentors
2. Make Checklists.
 - Think about what in the story motivates you & write it down
 - Create checklists containing vital points in the story, that you would like to include
3. Form Good Habits.
 - Set aside a specific time of the day for writing. Keep it consistent.
 - It is important to stick to deadlines.
4. Use Time Wisely.
 - plan how much you would like to accomplish during one session
 - 2,000 words per session is the average goal
5. Build Relationship with an Editor.
 - A strong relationship with your editor is important to the success of the novel
6. Try not to stress over first-draft.
 - Let the creative juices flow.
 - Worry about the story, not the grammar
7. Look for surprises in second-draft.
 - Find key ideas or motifs that reoccur in the story & try to incorporate it in more of the book
8. Start with strong character backstories.
 - It is important to create captivating characters that the reader will be interested in
9. Don't worry about commercial appeal.
 - Worry about your story, not about what a critic would think
 - Don't worry about the genre. You can create your own. Don't create boundaries for yourself.
10. Don't follow one set of rules set out by other authors.
 - Find your own voice

The Story

SYNOPSIS

When Danny's parents mysteriously disappear, Danny must embark on a journey through dystopian Neverland to save them. She finds that Neverland is nothing like the fantastical stories she'd been told as a girl. Instead, as she travels across the island, she must face monsters, each one worse than the last: sea serpents, sirens, and pirates. But, with each obstacle she faces, she can't help but deny her feelings for the charming James Hook, grandson of the infamous Captain Hook. They must work together to find Danny's parents and, ultimately, save Neverland.

Here you can find important developments in the plot/characters of my story.

The Short Story

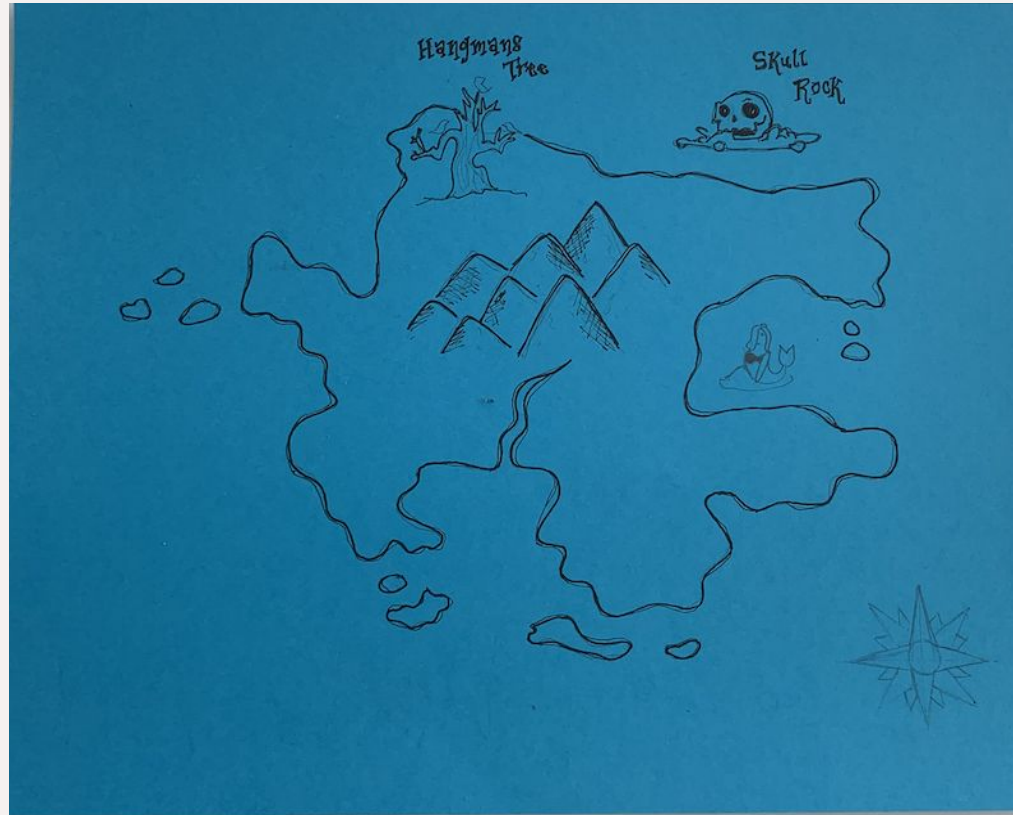

My novel is based on a short story that I wrote for my Honors English 10 Class. Below is a pdf of the story so you can see a rough outline of what my novel will be about.

Important Changes (Short Story vs. Novel)

- much more detail
- tempo of events
 - books layout will be based on setting
 - their journey will be going through Neverland
 - each place they visit is a new challenge
 - Neverland is a dark and dangerous place
 - sirens, steep mountains, coursing rivers, fae in the forest, pirates
 - get closer to each other as they journey through
- Shelby (not in ss)
 - ex best friend
 - comes to Neverland, but taken somewhere else
 - double crosses Dani because Jezebel threatens someone close to them
- James Hook
 - not as friendly
 - hiding something
 - smug and confident
- the Ending
 - not as happy and conclusive
 - leave room for a series
 - Peter doesn't return (let down)
